A. O. Smith Exhibits at 2012 THE PRO EXPO Presented by PellaSM Events

ASHLAND CITY, Tenn. (April 4, 2012) – A. O. Smith (www.hotwater.com) is taking additional steps to support and educate plumbing contractors and other industry professionals this year through its participation in THE PRO EXPO Presented by Pella events.

The water heater manufacturer will feature its entire residential high efficiency water heating line, including tankless technology.

The PRO EXPO presented by Pella (www.thePROEXPO.com) is a series of trade show-style events that unite remodelers, contractors, builders and architects. Attendees will discover timesaving strategies for working smarter, network with industry leaders, grow professionally with exclusive learning opportunities and explore the latest building products. AIA Educational credits will be offered to architects.

The theme of this year's show is "It's YOUR time," which encourages industry professionals to make the most of this challenging market through motivation and education.

"We at A. O. Smith stand by the events' mission, to strengthen our industry through education," said David Chisolm, director of marketing for A. O. Smith. "We are thrilled to participate and connect with the various industries' top professionals."

A. O. Smith has participated in several of the show series' events beginning in February through its conclusion in April. The leading water heater manufacturer will exhibit at the upcoming events:

- April 16 – Key Arena, Seattle, Wash.;
- April 19 – USS Hornet Museum, San Francisco, Calif.;
- April 23 – Petersen Automotive Museum, Los Angeles, Calif.
